

Jean-François Steichen started his career in September 2001 and is a member of the Luxembourg Bar since 2002.

He specialises in banking and financial law and in particular in insurance law (M&A transactions involving insurance undertakings, reinsurance companies and other financial institutions, insurance and reinsurance regulatory matters, relations with insurance intermediaries, insurance contract law, cross-border insurance activities, drafting of all contractual documentation relating to insurance and reinsurance activities etc.). He is also specialised in general civil, corporate and commercial law. In addition, Jean-François Steichen takes charge of various litigation cases.

Jean-François is also acts as an independent director of different companies and the largest Luxembourg insurance mutual company (société de secours mutuels).

In 2018, Jean-François has appointed as Chairman of the Luxembourg Superior Council for the Mutual Sector (Conseil Supérieur de la Mutualité Luxembourgeoise) which is a public body advising the Minister for Social Security on all aspect relating to the sector of mutual companies.

Prior to opening its own law firm, Jean-François Steichen worked from September 2001 until February 2010 for a large Luxembourg law firm.

He is also a regular speaker at conferences in Luxembourg and abroad.

Jean-François Steichen holds a Master's degree from the Robert Schuman University of Strasbourg (France), a Master of Laws degree (LL.M.) from the King's College London (U.K.) a Masters degree in francophone business law (DEA droit francophone des affaires) from the University of Paris I Panthéon-Sorbonne (France) as well as a Masters degree in business law (DES droit économique) from the Université Catholique de Louvain (Belgium).

Languages: English, French, German and Luxembourgish.